

Lakewood City Schools – Garfield Middle School
Summer 2010 Required Reading Assignment

Important Information from Next Year's Garfield Middle School Language Arts Teachers

Monday, May 24, 2010

Dear Parent or Guardian:

We believe that reading is a valuable skill that must be practiced over time in order to show improvement. Reading is also an enjoyable experience that can easily be treasured over the summer months. Therefore, all future sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students will be required to read at least two books this summer. After reading each book, students will be able to choose between two assignment options. Students should complete the two assignments (one for each book) before school starts in the fall. Students are required to bring their assignments with them to school and turn them in to their language arts teacher no later than Friday, September 10, 2010. Teachers will NOT accept late assignments after this date.

Grading Procedures:

Students need to read two books and complete two assignments. Any combination of the assignments listed below will be accepted. For example, a student could complete option A for one book and option B for the other book OR complete option A for two different books OR complete option B for two different books. Students will be graded on the assignments based upon following the instructions listed in this packet. This grade will count for up to ten percent of your student's first marking period grade in language arts. Students should select books to read that they have not already read for previous class or summer reading assignments, as these titles are on record. If your student transfers from one district middle school to another during the summer, his or her summer reading assignment will be accepted at either building.

Assignment Option A:

- For this option, students can select any book they would like to read. Current middle school students may find their Scholastic Reading Inventory Recommended Reading Report list or a book that falls within their Lexile Level a helpful place to start selecting a book. This Scholastic Reading Inventory list is only a suggestion and students may choose any book they like. It's important that the student and parent choose the summer reading books together, keeping in mind the reading and maturity levels of the student along with his/her interests.
- While reading, students will complete three journal responses for each book. Students should choose three of the journal response starters listed below for each book and respond to each one in a well-developed paragraph (5-10 sentences per paragraph). Students should respond in writing (either hand-written or typed) three times during the reading of each book and proofread their writing for content, spelling, punctuation, and grammar.
- Journal Response Starters (choose three different starters for each book):
 - I was surprised when.../angry about.../satisfied with.../moved by...
 - I liked the way the author ...
 - I don't understand why the author ...
 - If I were the author, I would have ...

Assignment Option B:

Read a book (or books) from the list below and participate in a book discussion. All book discussions will be held from 7:30 p.m. – 8:30 p.m. on the dates listed below in the Multipurpose Room at Lakewood Public Library's Main Library (15425 Detroit Ave). All students must arrive on time. Space is limited, so please register by stopping in or calling the Children's and Youth Services Department of Lakewood Public Library: (216) 226-8275, ext. 140. Students must register for the program, thoroughly read the book, and actively participate in the book discussion to receive credit for this assignment. Students and parents should choose the summer reading books together, keeping in mind the reading and maturity levels of the student along with his/her interests.

Going on a vacation? Take a book on tape/CD with you to listen to while you follow along with the book. The symbol  indicates that the title is available on CD or cassette at the Lakewood Public Library.

Obtaining the Books for Assignment Option B:

- The Lakewood Public Library and other local libraries should have copies of the books on hand.
- Three bookstores: Books-A-Million (216-706-5018) in Westgate, Rocky River; Barnes & Noble (440-250-9233) in Crocker Park, Westlake; and Borders (440-892-7667) in the Promenade Shopping Center, Westlake have been notified of the required reading assignments and should have copies of the books to purchase.
- Students should begin their summer reading assignment early. Locating books may be more challenging later in the summer.

Everyone in our district believes that reading is an enjoyable and educational activity that is beneficial if continued during the summer. We would hope that families make time for reading, visiting the library and/or bookstore so that this important skill continues to be practiced. The skill of reading makes a difference in every academic area! We hope that you have a great summer and that your student enjoys his/her reading activities. Thank you for your help and cooperation!

Sincerely,

Garfield Middle School Language Arts Teachers
